

Group Movie Licensing

Schools are required to comply with copyright law regarding the use of movies and educational films in group settings in school facilities. Christian Video Licensing International (CVLI) covers over 1,000 movie studios, including major studios such as: Disney, Pixar, Columbia, Sony, Warner Brothers, 20th Century Fox, Paramount, Universal, Dream Works, Scholastic, Lionsgate, The History Channel, and Discovery Channel along with the list found at:

The license also covers streaming services when a teacher streams from the teacher's own account to a class or other audience, as long as the producer is found in the list linked above.
